HAPPY CLOSING TO UNDERGRAD PRODUCTION OF OUR TOWN

This quarter's undergrad theatre production, Thornton Wilder's Our Town, closed this weekend. Directed by Kim Walsh, the production followed the people of Grovers Corners, a small New Hampshire town, who are intimately and profoundly presented in this deep classic of the American theatre. Performed on a mostly bare stage, actors mimed most of the actions of the characters' lives, only later just how full their lives actually were. At times deeply emotional and poetic, this play also showcased the talents of a large undergraduate cast through creative staging, down-home nostalgia and sly humor.

UNDERGROUND NEW PLAY FESTIVAL OPENS THIS WEEK

Company 157’s festival of new undergrad works, the Underground New Play Festival, performs this week on Thursday, December 6 at 7:30 PM and Friday, December 7 at 7:30 PM in the Arthur Wagner Theater. This season features three new plays, student written, designed, directed, performed, and produced by UCSD undergraduates! All performances are free with a suggested donation of $5 at the door to support our future workshops and productions. You can reserve your ticket here (http://tinyurl.com/2018UNPF).

This season's lineup is as follows:

Home by Sasha King, directed by Ajay Pawaan
When you're home alone during a blackout and thunderstorm, you make a fort and watch a movie in your older sister's bedroom. Sometimes, that's simple enough. But when your sister comes home for the first time in weeks ready to kick you out so she can lose her v-card, you might find it's not exactly something you approve of.

Trish's Guide to Surviving High School by Lily Tholfsen, directed by Halle Sousa
It's Trish's first day at a new high school. She's told to be careful of Selena, the most popular girl in school, but when the girl looks their chemistry is too powerful to resist. This play is a satire of cheesy high school stories, and a lesson that things aren't always as they seem.

Time Heals All Wounds by Natalie Lin, directed by Jenna Dern
Elena and Isaac are kindred spirits. Elena has the power of time travel. Isaac falls in love again and again and again.
URSULA MEYER DISCUSSES A DOLL’S HOUSE PART 2 WITH TODD SALOVEY

Two of our professor’s gathered to discuss the production of Lucas Hnath's A Doll's House Part 2 now showing at SD Rep. Acting Faculty Professor Ursula Meyer joined Acting Faculty Processor Todd Salovey for a segment of “Talkin Theatre with Todd”, which can be viewed here (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=L04rAPKSjQ). Todd is an MFA Directing alumnus and Associate Artistic Director for the Rep, which is running A Doll's House Part 2 through December 16th.

This epochal drama of marriage and the individual portrays a controlling husband, Torvald Helmer, and his wife, Nora, a submissive young woman who, when their idealized home-life collapses, comes to the realization that she must finally close the door on her husband, children, and life in "a doll's house" in order to find and live as her true self. At the shocking conclusion of this seminal work, Nora does what was unspeakable at the time. She walks out the door, leaving behind her family to seek an independent life.

Featuring a cast that performs a mix of contemporary Dengue and classic Cambodian oldies, playwright and UC San Diego alum Lauren Yee brings to vivid life the Cambodian rock scene of the ‘60s and ‘70s, a movement cut short by the Khmer Rouge’s attempt to erase the music (and musicians) once and for all.
