DEBORAH STEIN'S THE WHOLEHEARTED PERFORMS IN NYC

Playwriting Faculty Professor Deborah Stein's play The Wholehearted is currently performing in New York at the Abrons Arts Center. Created by Stein I Holum Projects, Deborah wrote the play and directed it with her frequent collaborator Suli Holum who performs in it. The Wholehearted is the unflinching portrait of a female boxer who survives a brutal attack by her husband. A tale of revenge and redemption, the violence of love, the sexuality of sports, and the high cost of fame, this new play utilizes live projections, film, and a thumping rockabilly score to explore the line between personal fantasy and hard reality—and what it takes to be a champion. It runs through April 1st.
